ONE WOMAN'S OPINION.

BY J. 8.

Before we were married it was 'Emily dear,''
''Do let me do that,'' and ''Let me go there;''
''Let me tool for you, 'fly for you—'
''Let me tool for you, 'fly for you!''
'Let me the for you de for you!''
'Amil' was so foolish to think it was true. And now we are married it is "Come, Mrs. Spratt, Just sew up this hole, put a botton on that! You must cook for me, bake for me, Mend for me, make for me!" And I am so foolish as to sit and to do.

Refore we were married I never knew strife But I'm never without it now I am a wife; So, maidens, I but you beware; Let me tell to you-pray to you— Talk to you-say to you— Men are deceifful, and wedlock's a snare!

THE FOUNT OF BITTERNESS.

O, sky of clouds! O, earth of graves!
O, seat of grave and moaning waves!
O, heart of hitterness, that craves
Relief in overflow.

dreamed the earth was fair to see, dreamed the waves laughed merrily dreamed the skies bent over me! And smiled and loved me so!

Alas! 'tis got in earth or akies
The secret of this serrow lies—
The secret of the tearful eyes,
The bitter heart's o'erflow Its nearer yet; a Marah-spring beep opened in the heart to fling Its blinding spray o'er everything A cold grey mist of woe.

O, pity, God! Thou knowest what tree. Cast in these Marah waves, would be A thing to make them sweet for me As Eden's blessed streams.

But if, in wisdom and in love, This bifterness, Thou bid me prove, Let hope's fair rainbow bend above, And Marah glorious avens. Ob! St. Patrick was a gentleman, Who came of decent people: He built a church in Dublin town, And on it put a steeple.

His father was a Gallagher, His mother was a Brady; His aunt was an O'Shaughnessy, His uncle an O'Grady.

So, success attend St Patrick's fist, For he's a saint so clever; He gave the anakes and toads a twist. And bothered them forever.

CHEATING .- "Is it wrong to cheat a lawyer?" was recently very ably dis-cussed by members of a debating socie-ty. The conclusion arrived at was that it was not wrong but impossible. Two little school girls lately prattling together, and one of them said, "We keep four servants, have got six horses and lots of carriages; now what have you got?" With quite as much pride, the other answered, "We've dot a skunk under our barn."

There is a curious custom at the Rus sian court. Every Russian Grand Duke end Grand Duchess has the right to ob-tain a full pardon annually for three con-victed felons, by speaking to the Czar about it on a holiday. This custom has existed since Catharine I.

David Derue, one of the oldest and most substantial citizens of Laclede county, residing near Ball's Mill, was killed a few days since, by being thrown from a horse and having his skull fractured. He leaves a widow and five child-

Sound criticism is this from the Shreveport Southwestern: "We often see the expression 'per year.' It is not proper. If the Latin preposition per is used, it should be accompanied by the Latin noun annum. It would be just as correct to say 'by the annum' as to say 'per year.'

A little girl who loves to pray, one night was very tired and sleepy, and was getting into her little bed without saying her prayers. But her mama told her to kneel down first to pray. So she folded her hands and said: "Please ern and Eastern Through Lit

AN ELECTRIC JOKE.

Some weeks ago, one of those illegitimate sons of science, the vagrant electric men, opened out at Fourth and Market streets, with his dial for testing how much torture his voluntary victims could stand. To stimulate trade, he kept a standing offer to pay $5 to who-ever could stand as much electric fluid as his machine would furnish. One day, a boy presented himself and an-nounced that he had come to win that $5. The man handed him the "handles," and started the machine. The boy stood it wonderfully. The operator turned the crank faster, and asked the boy how it felt. The boy said it did not feel at all. The man thought something must be the matter, and commenced an elaborate tightening up of the screws, and then commenced another series of swift revolutions, which ought to have prorevolutions, which ought to have produced a current sufficient to kill the boy; still he laughingly assured the fellow that he did not experience the slightest sensation. Out of patience, the man demanded to see his hands, and then the secret was explainted. The boy belonged to the telegraph office, and had picked up one of the pieces of insulated wire now being put up inside the office, and had passed it up one sleeve of his coat, around his shoulders, and down the other sleeve, and then uncovered the ends of the wire in each hand. Thus ends of the wire in each hand. Thus armed, he had gone to the electric man; of course, the uncovered ends of the wire pressed against the metallic hanwire pressed against the metallic handles, presented a better medium than the boy's body, and the current simply passed to them and along the insulated wire around the boy's body, without touching him. That "electrician was very mad, and all the more so as the crowd drawn tog ther thought it a good joke, and took the boy's part. The man was so laughed at that he left town.—

Scientic American.

Cut This Out and Keep It. Franklin Dyre, a highly respectable and intelligent farmer, of Galena, Kent County, Maryland, gives the following as a sure cure for the bite of a mad dog.

As will be seen, he has tasted it, with the most gratifying results:

Elecampane is a plant well known to most persons, and is to be found in many of our gardens. Immediately after being bitten take one and a half ounces of the root of the plant—the green root is perhaps preferable, but the dried will answer, and may be found in our drug-stores, and was used by me dried will answer, and may be found in our drug-stores, and was used by meslice or bruise, put into a pint of fresh milk, boil down half a pint, strain, and when cold drink it, fasting at least six hours afterward. The next morning repeat the dose fasting, using two ounces of the root. On the third morning take specther dose, prepared as the last, and another dose, prepared as the last, and this will be sufficient. It is recommend-ed that after each dose nothing be eaten for at least six hours.

I have a son who was bitten by a made dog eighteen years ago, and four other children in the neighborhood were also bitten; they took the above dose, and are alive and well to this day. And I have known a number of others who were bitten and applied the same rem-

It is supposed that the root contains a principle which, being taken up by the blood in its circulation, counteracts or neutalizes the deadly effects of the virus of hydrophobia.

I feel so much confidence in this simple remedy that I am willing you should give my name in connection with this

There was a fremeudous scene at the fall of the Column Vendome this evening. The fell was amounted for two vetock, and all the balconies in the Place Vendome were throughd with adies. Rue De La Paix and Castaglio were crowded. Three bands of musi arrived while the workmen were engage ed ins hipping the base column. M. Aba die next arrived and inspected the wind ss. The excitement was intense,

Rochefort next appeared, and the peoloud cheers. Soon all arrangements were completed, and bugles sounded, as if the column, like the walls of Jericho, was to fall from a blast. The cable stretched and tightened; the column stood firm; the windless broke, and the pulley flew into the nir and then des-cended, striking a sailor and wounding

Ater this accident Abadle declared that he needed two hours in which to repair the tackle. At a quarter past five o'clock it was given out that the lumn would not fall before 7 o'clock, which caused a general dissatisfaction through the crowd. At twenty minutes past five the cable was again stretched for the work of de molition. Suddenly, to the surprise of the spectators, the vast column moved and swayed; it next swept magnificently down, bursting into tragments as it struck the earth. It fell lengthwise on a manure cushion prepared for it, and splintering with a heavy lumbering sound, while thick clouds of dust and Fluid Extract Sarsaparills erushed and powdered masonry rose in the air. The crowd, as soon as the col-umn fell, gave tremendous shouts of the glorious column shattered to pieces, its bronze and masonry in masses together. The statue of the Emperor lay several feet from one end with the head knocked off. The crowd rushed forward to collect the fragments a relies and guards were unable to resist the rush. The rioters then commenced their speeches, indulging in all sorts of extravagant language. The statue of the Emperor was served as if it were the Emperor himself. The guards spit into its face and struck it with their rifles.

After the ceremonics were concluded the crowd dispersed and the soldiers moved off, waving their red flags and giving expressions of their joy by continued shouting.

THE POPE.

After the entrance of the Linlian troops the Pope voluntarily shut himself up in the Vatican and called himself a prisoner, though he had just as much liberty as er, though he had just as much horry as any other citizen. At first he applied for permission to retire to Rome. Victor | Emanuel told him he was at perfet liber-ty to go where he pleased, or stay; that his liberty would not be infringed in the slightest degree. Yet the Pope still insists upon calling himself a prisoner. COUNCIL BLUFFS This singular conduct can only be explained upon the assumption that it is inthe Roman Catholies, had been in favor of the Pope retaining the temperal pow-er, would not more than one hundred and fifty have volunteered to support his claim? France is impotent, Spain is powerless, and can hard-y hold Cuba. In the United States there only a little bluster in some of the cities. The democratic principle that the majority shall rule is working well in the Eternal City.

> A PETRIFIED APPLE.—Says the Hannibal Courier of the 11th; "We were shown to-day a petrified apple which was discovered by some workmen in digging a well near Shetbina a day or two since. It was exhumed at a depth of twenty-five feet below the surface, and is period in every particular, save that it is solid stone instead of the mellow apple it was when dropped in its subterranean bed. It is the property of a lady, and we trust she may be induced to donate it to the 'curiosity shop' of the Mercantile Library Association of this
